Peter Gregg Foundation Debuts Peter Gregg's Historic Porsche 930 Turbo

Private Press Event with International GT and Lucky Dog Racing

ATLANTA, GA, March 25, 2021 -- Trans Am Series race car driver Simon Gregg and his foundation, Peter Gregg Foundation, will join International GT at Lucky Dog Racing Friday evening, at a private event for media professionals, International GT enthusiasts exclusive VIPs.

Gregg will announce details about five scholarships for future mechanics while debuting Peter Gregg's meticulously restored 1976 Porsche 930 Turbo in conjunction with International GT's annual reception.

"I'm excited to announce five scholarships to talented aspiring mechanics," Gregg said. "I can't think of a better place to share the details than at Lucky Dog Racing and our team's home track, Road Atlanta."

Gregg, who races with Burtin Racing of Alpharetta, GA, said his foundation seeks to help young people with a heart and hunger to work on cars find an educational and professional path in motorsports.

"We're accepting applications online now through our website," Gregg said. "We also have a tent at Road Atlanta all weekend with paper applications and some cool merchandise for sale," Gregg said.

Interested applicants can learn more about the Peter Gregg Scholarship program and apply online at <https://petergreggfoundation.org/apply/>.

Gregg said the foundation and Peter Gregg's 930 Turbo will be touring the U.S. through 2021 in conjunction with the Trans Am Series race schedule.
